

I am enjoying the quiet with the no call list especially during mealtime. I don't feel the banks should have the ability to harrass customers that no longer utilize their institutions - maybe if the customers where happy with the services they would never have left.